STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

Five Republican campaign companies have been started in Lewiston. They will be twenty companies of the "Boys in Blue."

Cumberland

Saturday night, while Mrs. F. D. Smith, of Hollowell, was stepping aboard the Pullman train going east, at the Maine Central depot, Portland, a pickpocket snatched a valuable gold hunting case watch from her pocket and made good his escape.

The water power at Canal Hill, a village in the town of Windham, has been leased by Little & Wright who are erecting a mill, for the purpose of grinding grains.

During the quarter ending June 30th, 67 marriages are under 1 Portland. Of these, 111 were Irish, 109 each Canadian and Swedes, 109 Norwegians, 70 Germans, 50 Danes, and 47 Nova Scotians. Of the women married, 278 had no occupation, 200 were laborers and 13 farmers.

Mr. Trafton, the livery stable proprietor, rented a horse and buggy, lately, to go to Saco grange. The team has not since been seen. It appears probable the same man took the team towards Boston, and on the way stole another team, as an exact description of him was forwarded Marshal Pieculle from a Massachusetts town, where he hired one.

Mr. Rubie has shored up the steamer State of Maine, from sixteen to the stern, making her water tight. The distance of the steamer from the waters 880 yards and 20 wide. Two feet wider than the vessel, is being blasted out of the rock which is mainly, making a cut of nearly four feet are deep water. The explosion of the dynamite is made when the tide is, which explodes the mine, it is covered with water so that the ship may not be injured by the shock. At night the workmen work by the light of pitch fires. When the steamer is afloat the steam pumps will pump out the water and the vessel be taken to Bath for repairs.

Kennebec

Betsey Robins, of Vassalboro, aged eighty-seven years, retired to rest, last Saturday evening in usual health. Nothing was early as usual, the next morning, her son went up stairs to call her and found her dead, says the Waterville Sentinel.

Daniel Clark, of Clinton, was poisoned with Canada purple in putting that on potatoes raised on his potatoes. It got into the circulation through a sore he had on the back of his hand. The hand and arm began to swell in a short time, and were soon as soft as jelly. He died Sunday.

Mr. H. H. Harlow, of Augusta, sounded his steam whistle Friday afternoon, in honor of the nomination of Governor St. John by the Prohibitionists. At first it was taken to be an alarm of fire, as the fire department came out. The bells were also rung, and the machine started off in regular fire gait. The crowd of firemen followed out shortly, however, and every one returned to their business, evidently much disgusted.

Mr. Charles Vosmus, of East Readfield, had his pocket picked of a pocket-book containing $200, in Winthrop, Saturday afternoon. The book was in his inside vest pocket, and it disappeared just as he was bent to sound the afternoon train. There were several about him, jostling and pushing. He caught a glimpse of a hand which placed in front of him, disappearing in an instant. At the same time several men, probably confederates of the pickpocket, crowded against him. He discovered his loss almost immediately. An unsuccessful search was made for the thief. Mr. Vosmus thinks he could recognize him.

Lincoln

The fall term of Lincoln Academy will begin on the first Monday in September, under the directions of Prof. H. K. White, of Newcastle, formerly a teacher at the East Maine Conference Seminary, and principal of Washington Academy, East Machias. He will be assisted by his sister, Miss Mary E. White. The seminary building is now being painted and put in best of order.

Oxford

Bowman & Mann have a crew of thirty men under Fred Gilmore now at work in Rumford Falls. They have 2,000,000 feet of lumber before them, and that is to be driven over the rocks with so little fall.

It is reported that the body of Mr. Spencer, drowned in the Androscoggin, last fall, has been found.

Somerset

A very fine Republican flag was unfurled, Saturday evening, in front of the House of Logan club rooms, in Skowhegan, and the cheers of the large and enthusiastic audience. From a platform prepared for the occasion in front of the club room, L. H. Webb, Esq., called the audience to order with fitting and eloquent remarks, introduced J. G. Bradbury, Esq., of Hartland, as the orator of the evening, who opened the campaign with an excellent address, which was received with applause. At the close of Mr. Bradbury's speech, with three rousing cheers for our ticket, the crowd dispersed. Excellent music was furnished by Norridgewock band.

Waldo.

Capt. E. L. French has lately presented Mrs. O. W. Pitcher of Belfast, with a curiosity from Mexico, the weapon of a saw fish. Capt. French says the fish, when caught, measured twenty-five feet in length, including the saw, which now hangs in the office of William Pitcher & Son, and measures four feet in length, two inches in width at one end and four at the other. It has sixteen teeth on each side, which range from two to two and a half inches in length. A fish of that size with such a weapon must be a wicked enemy to encounter.

York.

William Dupree and John Leran, workmen employed by James A. Gray, brick manufacturer in Saco, went in bathing, Friday evening. Dupree jumped into the water first, immediately followed by Leran. The latter swam a little distance, and on seeing his mate, Dupree call for assistance, after which he immediately sunk. The alarm was at once given and search made for the body, which was recovered about 9.30 o'clock by Mr. Leran. On recovery of the body Coroner Bradbury, in company with Officer Hasty, were summoned, the body viewed and an inquest deemed unnecessary.

Mr. Chas. Brown, of St. Albans, lost a valuable cow last week in a singular manner. The cow did not come up at night with the rest, and it was supposed that she had strayed from the pasture, but after a long search she was found in the pasture, dead. She had caught her foot in the crotch of a tree and in falling she bent her neck under her body, breaking it.

From Calais.

THE REGATTA—A BOLD CHARACTER—FIRE-ESCAPE.

[Correspondence Whig and Courier.]

CALAIS, Me., July 28th, 1884.

The regatta is a thing of the past, and quiet once more reigns supreme in Calais. On the whole, Calais is no better off in any respect by the races as much money has been taken out of town, principally, it was left here, if not more. The hotels and saloons were almost the only ones that derived any benefit by them, and to the latter the Fourth of July was a much better financial occasion. Probably not more than 2,000 strangers were in the city on Thursday and Friday, and it is hard to believe that they represented that number. A much larger crowd filled the streets of Calais on the Fourth than on either of these days, but, in the first instance the crowd was differently made up. It is large to say that it would hardly be fair to make a comparison of the two occasions. A report was in circulation on the streets Saturday night to the effect that the Regatta Committee were short about $600. Evidently they had not neither lavishing over their expenses, but their losses may not reach this amount. Still, to a casual observer it would hardly appear otherwise. The regatta itself was a great success, and the races were undoubtedly rowed upon their merits. Although the result was rather unexpected, yet from majority of the crowd, except those financially interested in Tremont, it was none the less pleasing. Tremont appeared so positive of taking the first prize, that a great many people hoped he would close it on this very account. Conroy, although apparently quite as confident himself as Tremont, did not say so much about it, only stating that he would pull for all he was worth and beat Tremont if he could. Undoubtedly, he would have experienced much trouble in defeating the Maine sport, would he had they been on equal terms with respect to the course, although many are confident that even then he could have beaten him. The result of the race will undoubtedly lead to another match race, shortly between the two leaders, at Lisbon, one between Conley and Gaudour, the Mississippi champion. Tremont's race with Ross at Oak Point, N. Y., is watched with great interest, and Tremont's backers will double or triple their bets for all the money they may wish to bet. Ross holds a great advantage in having been on the spot for two weeks already, and has probably by this time acquainted himself thoroughly with Tremont. Tremont had no business to row a long race so soon before the one with Ross, and would not have done so, which he felt positive that he could capture the first money, six hundred dollars. He was very much chagrined at the result, and took his defeat badly. He was the favorite with the other sportsmen who would all have been only too glad to see Conroy win. Several sporting men whom we took to Lake Pleasant, and respected Mr. Lakes, they all agreed that a direct or a four mile race could be found thus on Lake Pleasant. It is not improbable that a big race will come off there in four long. Conway left this morning by the train for Portland, accompanied by Lakes and Mr. Wm. Spelman. Both men feel very much pleased over the regatta, and leave Calais with the best wishes of all who have made their acquaintance.

Wm. Thompson was sent to Machias, on Tuesday last, by Judge Rounds, to serve a fine of $1,000 bonds to appear at the October term of the Supreme Court. Thompson created great disturbance in Calais and St. Stephen, on Monday, by assaulting divers people and threatening them with a knife. Notwithstanding his drunken condition it took four men to handle him, and only after a hard struggle he was finally bound, placed in a wagon and taken to the station house. Thompson has served several years at Thomaston, and this time should be given a long sentence, he being altogether too dangerous a man to be let loose on a community.

An excursion to Grand Manan by the Knights of Pythias of Calais, St. Stephen and Eastport, on the new steamer Flashing, will take place shortly. Numerous other excursions will occur this week and next.

Rector McKenzie, the largest man in town, died in Thursday last, very sudden ly. He was a well known and respected citizen and had a large number of friends.

Several parties report having their pockets picked on regatta days. One of our prominent citizens lost a pocket-book containing about $140 and a double pipe, on Crocker's grounds. A larger number of gamblers and "thimble riggers" were never seen in Calais before.

The receipts at the rink, last week, were larger than any week since its opening. On Thursday evening upwards of 2,200 admission tickets were sold at the door, and nearly 1,000 skaters were on the floor. A fancy dress party was largely attended on Tuesday evening, and was a very pretty affair, many of the costumes being extremely handsome. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, Prof. A. D. Wilmot gave a pleasing bicycle performance. Miss Jessie Lafore exhibits Monday evening, both in skating and dancing, in both of which she is said to be par excellence.

A great many summer visitors are in town.

F.

Mrs. Langtry's Future.

PREPARED ON HER RETURN TO REVIVE A THEATRE IN NEW YORK.

Among the few passengers sailing for Europe from New York, Saturday, Mrs. Langtry was by far the most prominent. She reached the Arizona shortly after seven o'clock, dressed in a tight fitting drab suit and wearing a jaunty little cap.

She was accompanied by her mother, Mr. Lebreton, and her little Chinese page. Mrs. Langtry will have but a brief rest on her arrival, for she begins an engagement for two weeks at Newcastle-on-Tyne on August 11.

"From there," continued Mrs. Langtry to the reporter, "I go to Glasgow, Edinburgh, Scarborough, York, Leeds, Manchester, Liverpool, Bristol and Birmingham. This will bring me up to about the middle of November. After this I may play two weeks in the provinces, and then I take a well-earned rest during the holidays. I shall sail from Liverpool for New York about the 5th of January and play a season of ten weeks in New York alone, and about fourteen weeks in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, etc.

"Besides 'A Wife's Peril' and 'Odette,' I shall add two new plays to my repertoire. 'What they are I cannot now say, and then I hope to make arrangements with Mr. W. S. Gilbert, whereby he will write a play to order for me, as it were. While I am away I shall gather under my wing the best available talent, at no matter what cost.

"At what figure will you make your entrance, Mrs. Langtry?"

"I shall open in all modesty at the Lyceum Theatre. For two weeks I shall go along to Niblo's, the theatre at times found of all the actors where I play for four weeks.

"How are you discussed now in our country?"

"I thought it pretty mean that opinion popped out, said Mrs. Langtry with a hearty laugh. "But why should you ask me how I regard a country that has been so kind to me and so much it seems to subject me to any. The best way I feel, is to answer your question by saying that of my profits of the last season I have saved $50,000 in real estate in this city. My total earnings for my entire season in America, including the two months for the two weeks we engaged."

"What have your earnings amounted to since you have been on the stage?"

"Three hundred thousand dollars in thousands, $300,000 of which I have invested."

"Is it true that you intend building a theatre in New York?"

"Yes, sir. On my return here I propose to build a theatre, which I shall bring myself and then I shall have a theatre of my own, which I shall control, and I shall settle here permanently in the fall of '85. Next season, I'm going to run my own business, and shall bring over my own private secretary."

MR. HENDRICKS IN THE WAR

His Treasonable Speech in Indiana.

HE ADVISED ARMED RESISTANCE TO THE DRAFT—FRANCHISE TO BE FORFEITED.

(By Telegraph to the Whig and Courier.)

Chicago, July 26. The speech delivered by Thomas A. Hendricks at Shelbyville, Indiana, in 1863, is one of the occurrences in the war manner which will not bear, but which rises to the first hour whenever he appears before the loyal people. The facts about the Shelbyville meeting are these: Early in February 1863, Richard Smith, the editor of the Cincinnati Gazette received a polite letter from one of his subscribers in Shelbyville, informing him that there would be a gathering of the people in the Southern Indiana district that place on February 5 to receive advice from Thomas A. Hendricks as to enlistments and organizing. It is that the meeting was to be a strictly private one, as it had not been advertised in the public print, but the information had been sent through their secret organization.

The editor at once felt that it was important to the interests that all the world should know what the counsel of Mr. Hendricks and a skilful and accurate reporter was sent to Shelbyville. When the young man arrived in the main street of the place he found hundreds of Indiana sons of the Southern type long and lean dressed in butternut, parading the streets armed with long rifles. The men were greeted with shouts of "hurrah for Jeff Davis" and "Lincoln the abolitionist President." The meeting was held in the court house. The Gazette phonographer quietly slipped into a seat at the end of the table, able to one side and looked at the spectacle. A representative of the Gazette was forcibly ejected from the room and locked out. Mr. Hendricks addressed the meeting in a familiar way for some two hours, giving them his best to meet the issue and upon them and defend the Republic. The Hon. John Wilson, a veteran Whig, warming up to his theme, became more and more defiant and treasonable. Turning to the Democrats in the house, he said: "Let the Republicans call us traitors, we will stand by our rights." Wilson whispered to Mr. Hendricks, who then left the house. The whole meeting was in a tumult, and the unlucky Gazette reporter was hurried out of the house and sent off on the first train.

The story of the reporter's escape is a good one. When the Gazette's representative left the court house, he was followed by a crowd of men who had seen the Gazette paper taken from the reporter. Mr. Hendricks addressed the people

POLITICAL.

THE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

Notify Cleveland of his Nomination.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 29. Notwithstanding the heavy rain the streets near the Executive Mansion, where the ceremony of officially notifying Gov. Cleveland of his nomination for the Presidency took place, were crowded by noon time. About three o'clock the Albany Philanx started from the headquarters on State street and marched one hundred and twenty strong from the headquarters on State street and marched one hundred and twenty strong to the Delevan House, where carriages were in waiting to take the members of the Notification Committee and National Committee to the Governor's residence. At 3:35 the procession left the Delevan House, reaching Governor Cleveland's residence at four o'clock. The immense concourse of people surrounded the residence, and a large number of police were present to keep the grounds from being trampled on.

The house was uncomfortably crowded with guests, especially in the main parlors where there was scarcely more than room enough for the committees. The ceremony was brief but impressive. The committees arrived in a body and the Committee on Notification took positions in the South end of the room with the National Committee in the north end. Space was reserved in the centre and as soon as the preparations were completed the Governor entered and stood with his back toward a flower decked mantle. The ladies of the party stood on his left. As soon as the cheering which greeted the Governor's arrival had subsided Col. W. L. Villas, chairman of the late Democratic Convention and of the Notification Committee stepped forward and addressed the Governor, after which Nicholas M. Pilmer, of Missouri, the secretary of the committee read the following address prepared by the committee:

Formal Address.

NEW YORK CITY, July 25.

HON. GROVER CLEVELAND, New York:

SIR—In accordance with the custom befitting the nature of the communication, the undersigned, representing the several States and Territories of the Union, were appointed a committee by the National Democratic Convention, which assembled at Chicago the 8th of the current month, to perform a pleasing office, which by this means we have the honor to execute of informing you of your nomination as the candidate of the Democratic party in the ensuing election for the office of President of the United States. A declaration of principles upon which the Democracy come before the people, with the hope of establishing and maintaining them in the government, was made by the convention, and an exact copy thereof is submitted herewith in connection with this communication for your consideration. We trust the approval of your judgment will follow an examination of the expression of opinion and policy and in the political controversy now made up we invite your acceptance of this exalted leadership to which you have been chosen.

The election of President is an event of the utmost importance to the people of America. Prosperity, good, happiness, peace and liberty even may depend on its wise ordering. Your nomination is a proof that the Democracy believe your election will contribute to secure these great objects. We assume you share in this anxious responsibility, you must assume as our candidate you will have the sincere, cordial support of the friends of the cause you will represent and in the execution of the duties of the high office, which we confidently expect from the wisdom of the Nation to be conferred on you, you may surely rely for approving aid on the patriotism, honor and intelligence of this free people. We have the honor to be with great respect.

W. E. VILAS, of Wisconsin, President.

NICHOLAS M. PILMER of Missouri, Secretary.

And by all the members of the committee.

Gov. Cleveland's Response

Gov. Cleveland who had stood in the room while reading the address replied as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee—You: formal announcement does not, of course, convey to me the first information of the result of the convention lately held by the Democracy of the Nation, and when as I listen to your message I see about me representatives from all parts of the land of that great party which, claiming to be the party of the people, asks them to entrust to it the administration of the government, and when I consider under the influence of the stern reality which present surroundings cast, that I have been chosen to represent the plain purposes and policy of the Democratic party, I am profoundly impressed by the solemnity of the occasion, and by the responsibility of the position. Though I gratefully appreciate it I do not at this moment forget that myself on the distinguished honor conferred on me. My mind is full of anxious desire to perform well the part which has been assigned me.

Nor do I at this moment forget that the rights and interests of more than 50,000,000 of my fellow citizens are involved. In our efforts to gain Democratic supremacy. This election presents to my mind conditions which more than all others give to the action of my party in the convention assembled its most sober and serious aspect. The party and its representatives which ask to be intrusted at the hands of the people with the keeping of all that concerns their welfare and safety should duly ask it with a full appreciation of the sacredness of the trust and with a firm resolve to fulfill it faithfully and well.

I am a Democrat because I believe this truth lies at the foundation of true Democracy. I have kept faith for I believe it rightly and fairly administered and applied Democratic doctrines and measures will insure the happiness, contentment and prosperity of the people. If in this contest on which we now enter we steadfastly adhere to the underlying principles of our party creed and at all times keep in view the people's good we shall be strong because we are true to ourselves, and because the patriotic and independent voters of the land will seek by their suffrages to compass their relief from party tyranny. These thoughts and consecration to our cause and we go forth not merely to gain partisan advantage, but pledged to give to those who trust us the utmost benefit of a pure and honest administration of National affairs. No higher purpose or motive can stimulate us to a supreme effort, to urge us to continuous and earnest labor and effective party organization.

Let us not fail in this and we may confidently hope to reap the full reward of patriotic services well performed. I am thus called to mind some simple truths, and, trite though they are, it seems to me we do well to dwell on them at this time. I shall soon, I hope, signify in the usual formal manner my acceptance of nomination which has been tendered to me. In the meantime I gladly greet you all as co-workers in a noble cause.

The Governor spoke extemporaneously and not without evidence of deep earnestness and feeling. The address was delivered with rare grace and effect. The congratulations that were showered on him by the many distinguished leaders of the party at the close of the ceremonies were sincere and hearty. After some time spent in social intercourse the doors of the dining room were swung open and refreshments partaken of.

Public Meeting.

The city was alive with enthusiasm tonight. The Democratic Phalanx 120 strong made a short parade before escorting the speakers to the hall. In spite of the drizzling rain both Music Hall and Tweed Opera House were filled to overflowing. At Music Hall Col. Vilas presided and addresses were made by Mr. Vilas, Ex-Speaker Samuel J. Randall, Ex-Gov. T. M. Waller, of Connecticut, Gov. Chas. Hooker, of Mississippi, and Hon. Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois. The following telegram was read from Ex-Gov. Tilden:

GREYSTONE, July 28, 1884.

TO MARTIN DEWANEY, President Democratic Phalanx:

I received last evening your invitation to attend the meeting to be held this evening under the auspices of the Albany Democratic Phalanx for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks. Although I cannot be present with my old friends in Albany on that interesting occasion, I cordially co-operate with them in support of the ticket nominated by the Democratic National Convention, and feel assured that in its success at the election, of which there is every probable, the country will achieve a substantial victory for the cause of good government.

S. J. TILDEN.

West Virginia Republicans.

We hereby affirm and adopt the demands presented by the Independent labor party of the State of New York, which were adopted and incorporated in the platform by the Democratic party of that State in 1882.

The committee also adopted a resolution as follows:

Whereas, Our platform and principles were submitted to the consideration of the National Conventions of the respective political parties and duly adopted, and whereas our methods of procedure require as where our principles are adopted by existing political conventions to notify our members of that fact, and in such case have each member free to consult his individual or party preferences, therefore

Resolved, That we accept the action and indorsement of our principles by the National Conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties as progressive and beneficial to American industry.

It was also resolved not to make any nomination of labor candidates for President and Vice President.

The French Vote for the Republican Ticket

MONTREAL, July 29. A movement is at present on foot here, inaugurated by the leader of the French Canadian party who are working for the Independence of Canada, to secure for Blaine, the Republican Presidential candidate, the large vote controlled by French Canadians in the United States. The reason of this movement as stated by one of those at the head of it is that Blaine declared himself favorable to the independence of Canada and a commercial union of the whole of North America. This, continued the gentleman in question, is the same policy as that pursued by Garfield during his campaign, and to which he was indebted for the solid French Canadian vote. At that time I was in correspondence with Garfield, and still have his letters in which he was in favor of a grand commercial union to embrace Canada and Mexico, and Blaine, as his Secretary of State, inclined this path.

"Blaine since his acceptance of the Republican candidature has reiterated his views on the subject and his friends have been in communication with leading French Canadians in order to secure for him the vote of their compatriots who reside in the United States, estimated from 300,000 to 400,000. The campaign will immediately be inaugurated in the large manufacturing cities of the New England States, to which French Canadians will be despatched from Canada to work up a boom."

The roll was called, and 37 members answered to their names, no representative being present from Connecticut, Maryland, Kentucky, Michigan, Nevada, Dakota, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. The proceedings of the meeting of July 24 were approved.

Dawson of South Carolina, on behalf of the committee on organization, made a report, which was adopted, but the committee decided not to publish it at present the matter being left in abeyance and the chairman and secretary will decide what portions, if any, shall be given to the newspapers.

On motion of Mr. Smalley, of Vermont, Charles J. Cindi, of New York, was unanimously elected Doorkeeper.

On motion of Mr. Dawson, of South Carolina, Edwin B. Dickenson of New York, was unanimously appointed stenographer.

Mr. Thompson of New York, on behalf of the committee on headquarters, reported progress and asked permission to make a final report to the executive committee at its meeting in New York. The following were unanimously appointed the executive committee:
